

Hello. My name is Michael. My Amateur Radio callsign is KF6WTC. For the record I am against CW proficiency as a requirement for HF (High Frequency) access on Amateur Radio bands. I feel that the only testing requirement for operation in any Amateur Radio band is radio theory, NOT a mode of operation. Do we test for ones ability to speak to use phone (voice) mode? No. Do we test for ones ability in computer science for psk31 or packet mode operations? No. Testing for ones ability to use continuous wave emissions for High Frequency access should not be a requirement.

Thank you

Michael
